1. 2. How to arrive?

How to get to Tarragona

There are many companies flying to Barcelona Airport and some to Reus Airport, too.

If you arrive at BCN airport, from Terminal 2 you can travel to Barcelona and stop in Bcn-Sants / Bcn-Passeig de Gràcia / Barcelona-Estació de França (all three are in the city centre) and then change to another train to Tarragona or Reus.

From Barcelona airport you can easily book a transfer through PLANA BUS Company that departures from Terminal 1 or buy the ticket on the bus.

How to get to the International Center

From the train station you can take the bus 41 and stop in Joan Molas (around 30 min).

From the bus station or city center you can take the bus 54 to Joan Molas bus stop (around 15 min).

2. Before your arrival

2. 1. Cost of living

A student spends approximately 550€ on monthly expenses including accommodation, meals and transport.

A shared flat with other students could cost around 200-300€ per person.

A daily lunch menu at a restaurant can cost between 8€ and 15€. In the evenings and on weekends prices are usually higher. In the URV canteen you can find a daily menu from 6€.

Coffee in a cafeteria costs around 1.5€

One way bus ticket costs 1.60€, but you can get a youngster bus pass for 20.75€ valid for 100 trips.

2. 2. Accommodation

We recommend you not to pay for a long period accommodation before you visit it. Our advice is that you make a provisional reservation at a student residence or hotel for your first days here. Once you arrive to Tarragona, you can look up some information about renting flats and rooms, so that you know and find the most suitable option.

URV Database for flats and rooms

To access the information you need to put your ID once you are introduced in our system. Contact us if you need a temporary password.

If you are interested in staying in a student residence we suggest to check the following: Residència Sant Jordi & Residència Mediterrani.

2. 3. Understanding Catalonia

People in Catalonia make gestures and use their body a lot when they speak and they touch each other more than in other cultures (for example by putting a hand on the shoulder). In informal situations people greet each other with two kisses on the cheeks – particularly if the persons have just been introduced. This applies to women to women and women to men, but not men to men.

A conversation amongst a group of Catalan friends is usually lively (and loud). It is common for everybody to talk at the same time, so do not be surprised if another person starts a new conversation before you have finished what you were saying.

Perception of time depends strongly on where you come from. In Catalonia, people tend to be punctual in formal situations such as lessons, public events etc. but are more flexible regarding informal situations. It is also common for people to change their plans at the last minute

As a part of the siesta culture (migdiada), shops tend to be closed during the afternoon (between 1PM and 4PM). However, not all of them close during this time, so always check the opening hours!

Eating habits can also be a bit of a surprise. Lunch is eaten around 2PM and dinner between 9–10PM, and even later at weekends and in summer. You will notice that some restaurants are closed between lunch and dinnertime.

In addition, meals themselves might be different from what you are used to: instead of a full breakfast at home, people might have something small before going to work and then have a sandwich or cake around 10AM. Lunch can be a three-course meal with wine or beer. Eating is often related to social occasions, which is why friends and families tend to gather together for a meal.

If you wish to explore Catalan gastronomy you can start with pa amb tomàquet (bread with tomato), tapas, paella and crema catalana. However, in order to get a deeper insight into our delicacies it is worth trying a lunchtime menu in a local restaurant or even travelling out of town to find other traditional dishes.

Late night schedules apply not only to dinnertime but also to going out. People start gathering in pubs and bars around midnight and move on to the nightclubs from 2AM onwards.

There are several local festivals and many folk activities in Catalonia. In general, festivals take place outside in the open air. Sant Jordi (Saint George's day), on 23 April, is the Catalan celebration of love (similar to Valentine's day). Men give their girlfriend/wife/mother/friend a red rose as symbol of love, and women give men a book.

On Sant Joan's eve, on 23 June, people celebrate the summer solstice with fireworks, concerts and a full night of celebrations. One the most important festivals in Tarragona is Santa Tecla on 23 September.

2. 4. Survival Catalan

Catalonia has two official languages, Catalan and Spanish (Castellano). Catalan is widely used in conversation, public administration, media, education, and in everyday life. Although everyone speaks Spanish and many people can also speak English, it is useful to know at least some basic words and expressions in order to make your daily life easier.

2. 5. Mentor Programme

How can a mentor help you?

The Mentor or Buddy can give you information about how to arrive in Tarragona or pick you up when you arrive at the train/bus station.

They can show you the city around, your Campus in the URV, and the most important places.

Your Mentor can help you finding accommodation for your first nights here, and help you with the definitive accommodation.

The Mentor gives you concrete indications about the transport that must be used to reach the city centre.

2. 6. Visa

Students from the European Union do not need a visa to enter Spain.

Students from outside the European Union should have a visa to enter Spain. This visa should be issued by the Spanish Embassy or Spanish Consulate before your arrival. The International Center will send an acceptance letter to the mobility students when they have been accepted by the academic coordinator.

Find more information here.

2. 7. Medical assistance

Your health is very important for us, you will see that in the application we ask for a copy of your European Health Card or a Health Insurance.

European Students must obtain the European Health Insurance Card before leaving their country of origin and make sure it is valid during the mobility period.

You should attach a copy of the card in your application and present it together with your ID/Passport in the CAP (Primary Attention Center) or hospital in case of need medical attention in Spain.

It is mandatory to attach to the application a valid health insurance in Spain, that guarantees the care of your health and the possible accidents. We suggest you to wait for the definitive acceptance from URV before obtaining an insurance.

In the meanwhile, you can upload in the on-line application, a responsible statement explaining you will get an insurance covering you during your mobility period in Spain. The URV can offer you an insurance police. In such case, please contact tecnico@urv.es. If you need medical assistance, always contact the insurance policy emergency phone in order to receive instructions.

In case of emergency, dial 112 phone number

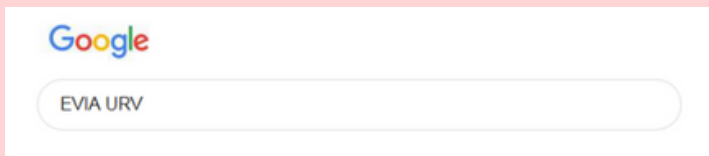

2. 8. General academic calendar

European Students must obtain the European Health Insurance Card before leaving their country of origin and make sure it is valid during the mobility period.

2.10. Application

As soon as your university has informed us that you have been selected to come to the URV as an exchange student, you will receive an e-mail explaining the steps to follow.

You have to complete the URV online application within the application periods:

- First semester / Full academic year students: from 1 April to 1 June 2025

Second semester students: from 1 April to 1 November 2025

You will find all the information in this link. Please, read it carefully.

If you have any doubt about the subjects/courses offered by the URV, you can check the links in the previous Mobility Coordinators pages or in this link.

2.11. Welcome meeting

Before your arrival, the International Center team will send you an e-mail to invite you to join one of the welcome meetings. Do not forget to check your e-mail account frequently (the one you used to complete the online application).

If you cannot attend any of the welcome meetings we organize, please send us an e-mail and we will send you an appointment for a personal welcome meeting in the International Center.
